In the intimate setting of a Parisian private mansion, visit to the Jacquemart-André Museum

Duration: 4h · Type: Classic

Departure by coach to the Jacquemart-André Museum. In this breathtaking 19th-century residence, you will immerse yourself in the private salons of Édouard André and Nélie Jacquemart. In this exceptional and intimate setting, you will admire one of the finest private art collections in Paris. Originally started with small pieces of goldsmithing, ceramics, and tapestries, Édouard André's collection gradually expanded to include true masterpieces such as paintings by great masters like Delacroix, Fragonard, and Botticelli. Decorative arts are equally well represented, with furniture, tapestries, and objects bearing prestigious hallmarks enhancing the residence and reflecting the couple's lifelong priority: building a remarkable art collection. More than just a museum, the house was, in the 19th century, a major social venue where lavish balls and receptions—welcoming up to a thousand guests—were regularly held. With its unique setting, prestigious collections, and refined social atmosphere, the Jacquemart-André Museum offers a window into the world of the Parisian elite of the time, marked by the exquisite taste of its owners.
